Dear Mr. Cantor:-

I have just received word from the Central Union Trust Co. that they mailed, on December 22nd, a check to you for $85.00, the amount due you for painting, which you should have received on December 23rd. The check has not been paid, neither has the receipt been sent back to them, and they suggest that the check may have been mislaid at your office or been mislaid in the mail. Would you not, therefore, make a thorough search in your office and advise us immediately, and in the event that the check is not found, we will advise the Bank to draw a duplicate check to your order for the $85.00.

We are sorry that you have had to wait so long for the money, but you can readily understand that it is through no fault of ours.

Very truly yours,

Curator.
